

L Lane College - The Power of Potential
545 Lave Avenue - Jackson, TN 38301- (731) 427-7500 - www.lanecollege.edu

June 18, 2015

Dear Sir or Madam:

Riveting, stirring, and enlightening is the rendering of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. speeches by Mr. Stephon Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson resurrects the timbre, inflection, pacing, and fervor that so distinctly characterize the oratory of King. Along with his remarkable recreation of King's sound, Mr. Ferguson delivers the rich substance of King's skillfully crafted addresses. His vocal likeness to King is as uncanny as the relevance of King's decades-old messages to today's economic, political, and social justice climate.

On three separate occasions, I witnessed Mr. Ferguson's performance. The first performance was before an audience of intellectuals that included a number of somewhat stodgy historians. The second was before a group of tourists diverse in age, background, and ethnicity. The third performance was before a group of about 400 college students, some of whom can be slow to remove their earbuds and turn off their cell phones at an assembly. However, with each of these audiences, Mr. Ferguson was a hit.

If you are planning an event and need an element that will captivate and inspire, consider Stephon Ferguson as Martin King.

Sincerely,

Ameera V. Graves
College Historian
Lane College
545 Lane Avenue
Jackson, TN 38301
Off: 731-265-1721
Cell: 301-535-9620
E-mail: agraves@lanecollege.edu

Lane College - 545 Lave Avenue - Jackson, TN 38301- (731) 427-7500 - www.lanecollege.edu